

Matthew Barnard

Hi, I'm a graphic designer based in the UK looking to take the next step in my career as a designer. I have worked with and managed the designs of many different clients, from startups to international brands. Creating user interfaces, website designs/assets as well as branding for new projects, services, companies, and creating asset for animations and video production by managing short deadlines and clients briefs along the way. In my last role, I worked as a designer remotely for a bespoke videos and animations company where I created graphic assets that were animated, such as characters, backgrounds, and illustrations.

My work has become refined and adaptable over the years as my roles have changed and developed, allowing me to quickly change work to meet clients' specifications, changing deadlines, or new design trends. I want to move into a more creative role, looking to learn new skills and add to my growing portfolio.

Outside of work

Outside of the studio or home office, you can find me at the pool swimming or outdoors with my dog, maybe at the airfield where I fly gliders from Buckminster Gliding Club to build my skills as a Pilot.
